ELEANOR WOODRUFF.

SCENE FROM "THE FRINGE ON THE GLOVE."

"THE FRINGE ON THE GLOVE" is a dramatic story of life in the west, in which the devotion of true friendship plays a most important part.

Eleanor Woodruff, whose character work has made her famous, has one great ambition in life—that is to play a lead in a crazy comedy. She says she would like to trade places with lovely Mabel Normand for a day.

In "Mareen, the Halfbreed," a woman gives all that she has to give to a worthless man. He degrades her and casts her off. Another woman with no knowledge of his previous alliance sacrifices herself to him. The first, with all the hatred and fury of a woman scorned, seeks revenge. Her hand is stayed by the helpless and innocent victim of the man's perfidy. A common sorrow brings the women together.

In "His Last Call" the actor's years of success are forgotten, and the last days of his life are days of poverty and turndowns by managers and agents. The old actor attends one of the plays in which he has often played the leading part and is recognized. The leading man is unable to go on, and the old Thespian is asked to take his place. His wonderful acting is a triumph, and he is called and recalled before the curtain. The excitement and joy of it all are too much for the old man, and he smilingly answers the last call before a greater and higher audience.

"The Hand of Horror" is a sensational drama in which a young steely Jack clings to the hands of a great clock on the very top of a skyscraper while the man who looked him out upon the face of the clock becomes insane at the thought of what he has done.

"When the Men Left Town" the women get control of the town and stop smoking, drinking and gambling. The men revolt and leave. The women suddenly discover that the mere male is very handy when it comes to heavy work. There is a demonstration against the mayors, and the men are rebuffed.

The suffragettes win the day in "The New Fire Chief." The old fire chief, Bunny, is displaced by a progressive militant. She gets rid of the old fire horses. An auto engine takes their places. Things look promising until a fire occurs. The new chief neglects her duty for the sake of other toilet while the fire burns. The auto has a mishap, and the town is threatened with a conflagration. Bunny, who has purchased his old horse and buggy, dashes to the rescue, gets the fire under control and proves himself the right man in the right place.

Financial and Commercial

New York Cotton

New York, June 18.—The generally favorable average of today's weather news pronounced scattering selling in the cotton market, but an early decline was recovered and the close was steady, net three points higher, on June, with other months net unchanged to 3 points lower. The talk around the local ring suggested quite a general feeling that the crop was improving and some of the private crop news published during the day was more encouraging, but there were a great many unfavorable reports, particularly from Texas and a statement that the Oklahoma State department of agriculture had estimated the cotton acreage at Oklahoma at 13 per cent under last year's probably helped the rally from the early decline.

The market opened steadily at a decline of 1 to 5 points and active months sold 5 to 8 points net lower during the early trading under liquidation, by some of yesterday's late buyers and local pressure. This selling was encouraged by the indifferent showing of the Liverpool cables, the failure of the early weather map to show any general heavy rains in Texas as such as suggested by some of the private advices of yesterday afternoon, and the favorable official forecast.

Offerings were readily taken at the decline, however, with prominent spot people and Liverpool houses good buyers of July, while there seemed to be some trade demand for new crop month. This steadied the market and prices later worked higher on covering and moderate bull support.

Cotton futures closed steady.

Cotton Seed Oil

New York, June 18.—After a steady opening due to the firmness of hard cottonseed oil eased off under realizing and a light outside trade. Later it rallied again with cotton and on scattered covering. Refiners sold early but were buyers in the last hour. Final prices were 2 points to three lower.

New Orleans Cotton

New Orleans, June 18.—After being adversely influenced by liquidation the cotton market steadied upon talk from the western belt of a large decrease in acreage and closed at a net decline of 1 to 4 points, which was within a point or two of the best, so far as the new crops were concerned. Unlike yesterday, there were few July contracts for sale and buyers paid 4 points over yesterday's close for that option in the early part of the session, while the new crops were at the decline.

Weather conditions were considered favorable and led to some selling early in the day. The trade, however, could not stand the small acreage talk coming from both Texas and Oklahoma, and a buying wave in the new crops resulted. December was the strongest month and at its highest was 1 point over yesterday's last quotation. Cotton futures closed steady. Grain and Provisions

Chicago, June 18.—Wheat sales for export gave today's market an upward swing. Closing prices, although easy were a sixteenth to 1-4 a 3-8c net higher. Corn finished 1-3 a 3-8c off to 1-8 a 1-4 above last night, and oats with a gain of 1-4 a 3-8 to 1-2 a 5-8c. The outcome in provisions was a rise of a shade to 2 1-2 a 5c.

Stocks and Bonds

New York, June 17.—A better showing was made by the stock market today. The advance was general, but there were only a few instances in which it exceeded fractions.

The firm tone was due in a measure to repurchase by traders who sold during the earlier days of the week. There was a marked scarcity of offerings. London was in a cheerful mood which led to a corresponding movement in the international stocks here.

Importance was attached to a further break in foreign exchange rates as a bullish factor. Demand sterling dropped under 488.50. It was felt that the movement pointed to curtailment of the extraordinary flow of gold out of the country. Notwithstanding the break, $2,550,000 more gold was engaged for export today. Time loans were easier.

In the bond market there were wide fluctuations. Missouri Pacific convertible 6s lost 2 points, but later recovered half of their decline. Rock Island debentures and International Steam Pump were exceptionally strong. Chicago and Indiana Coal Railway 5s collapsed, falling 24 points to 61. Total sales par value $1,820,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

President Johnson Says Chase Will Be Barred from Game.

Chicago, June 17.—President Johnson declared the American league today was ready to fight the new raid on its players predicted by President Gilmore of the Federal league. Not only will the American league try to prevent Chase's playing with the Buffalo Bisons, but it has already moved for preventing other White Sox from jumping.

Ben Johnson president of the American league said tonight: "I will see to it that no player who jumps no matter how big a star, he will ever play in organized baseball again. Federal league teams will not get a single player from Cincinnati's club. If Chase jumps his contract he will never play with the third league club. We will stop him the same way Chief Johnson was prevented from playing with the Kansas City club."

Few Sympathizers Shot.

Tampico, Mex., June 18.—Via Laredo, Texas, June 17.—Daniel Gonzales, who was chief of police here, who was chief of police here, while the Federal were in control at Tampico, and his assistants were executed at Bodogaya today.
